

P. 63. PRACTICE 4.4

1. Body piercing has both advantages and disadvantages, and one should consider both before one makes a decision.
2. OK
3. Even though many educators and administrators appear to believe otherwise, freshman composition is not necessary for success in college or career, and it should no longer be a required course.
4. My sister and I are as different as night and day. Or: Although my sister and I share the same parents, we are two completely different beings.
5. OK.

p. 80. RESPONDING TO WRITING: PRACTICE IN OUTLINING

- II. Telephone operators have become less sensitive to those callers with handicaps.
 - A. Their actions are rude.
 1. They sometimes hang up.
 2. Other times they switch the handicapped person to a supervisor.
 - B. They've gone from sensitive to inhuman.
 1. They used to treat handicapped people with respect.
 2. Now they appear to be mechanically rigged to some sort of stop clock.
- III. Businesses have also become less tolerant of deviations from the norm.
 - A. Banks have changed the way business is conducted.
 1. Now, rather than choosing one's own teller, one stands in line.
 2. Tellers appear to work much more slowly than before because they aren't held accountable.
 - B. Other businesses have become more impersonal.
 1. Customers are now known in many businesses as account numbers rather than people with names.
 2. Persons with a vocal handicap encounter problems because the computer may not recognize their code numbers.
- IV. There don't appear to be solutions to the problems technology presents.
 - A. Right now, it is the handicapped who feel the impact of this newly depersonalized society.
 - B. In the future, it could be that our entire population will feel this impact.
