

11-20

11.

One evening, a man drank a lot of wine on his friend's engaging ceremony. In the end, he talked to his friend a lot with unclear words. His friend suggested that he should go home immediately. Thus, for his own good he took a taxi home instead driving by himself.

On his way home, he wanted to take a taxi. For a while, there came not a taxi but a police car. Then the police man regarded him as a man went astray. To ensure safety, the police officer took him to the office and wanted his family people would take him home. But in a short time, the man was awoken. He didn't know where he was, just feel astonished. His active made the police man feel very angry, and made him like a joke.

12.

One Evening

One evening, the man attended his friend's marriage and drank many wine. When he will go home, he want to take taxi to his home but he take a police cart. He even think to that he has taken a taxi. when he getting up , he has sleeping all night in police building and he even didn't know what happened in this evening. so we have to be careful in drinking wine.

13.

One evening, there was a man called Bob who took part in a party. It was a wedding and everyone all has a delicious meal. Moreover, Bob durnk too much. Because he was very happy to meet the master of the party. The master and he were good friends during their school days.

After the party, Bob called a taxi home. Indeedly, the driver didn't conscious. And Bob fell asleep on the street. Until the next morning, he found he was already at the police office. One of the police stood behind him was angry at him. He said " You had slept for eitht hours!" Bob was really embarrassed. After that, he appreciated the police and went home. "I'll never drink so much anymore and it was a shamful experience in my life!" he thought.

14.

One evening, Davis were invitred to a wedding. There were approximately 150 people attending the wedding. The host and Davis were classmates and old friends in senior hight, and many close friends of them were in the wedding, too. They all like sports, so they talked a lot of it, like golf, bowling racing, and arohery. In that sitnatioon, unfortunately, Davis drant too much.

After the party, Davis walked on the way and he wanted to call a taxi. The cold winds blowed him, made his body shivery. Suddenly Davis saw a taxi, he called it and got in , fall asleep right away, not knowing what happened.....

Next morring Davis woke up on sofa, in an unsimaliar place. soon he knew what was going on! He was in a police station!

One police officer saw him, walked onto the sofa, shut at Davis. "Hey! Man! Don't you know that police's work is hustle and bustle? How can you dare? Call the police car as a taxi! Such a jerk! You are wasting all citis right!"

Davis felt ashamed, and then he listend that almost all police officers were talking about his embrassing experience, he just wanted to dig a hole and put his head in!

15.

One evening, a man who is named Paul went to the wedding. Because her girlfriend Lily would marry to a rich man, he was too grief to control himself. He drunk lots of alcholic beverage and walked on the street by himself. Because his mind was out of his control, he thought the polic car was a taxi. Paul was caught by the police and was sended to the police station. However, he didn't realize he made a big mistake. Because the police thought he was the suspect who usually did the criminal after drinking too much alchol in that city.

16.

One evening, he went to a restaurant to say "congratulate" to his friend, because his friend married someone in that night. He was very happy so that he drank a lot of wine, when he wanted to go back home, he stopped a car which he thought was a taxi, but it was a police car. Finally, he was woken up by a police man on the next morning, and he was so scared because he didn't know what he did at last night. Fortunately, the police man was very kind, and knew he did not do something illegal, so let him come home in the last.

17.

One evening, I went to my friend's wedding party. There were many people there, and the food on the table was delicious the atmosphere of the restaurant was good. Everyone was enjoyable and had a fun there.

I drank a lot, so I had to take a taxi home. The moment I shook my hand to call a taxi, there were a car driving to me. Then the car stopped. There came a police and I was caught to the police station.

The policeman lead me to his office, calling down to me. I felt very embarrassed with my bad behavior. This experience learned me a lesson that not to drink too much, because it may bring about a big trouble!

18.

One evening, Gary went attending his best friend's wedding ceremony. And he discovered that there were a lot of his friends in the ceremony. He felt so happy that he tried to talk to all of them. When one of his friends told him, "The wine over there is very good. You should try some," he forgot that he always got drunk after drinking.

When the ceremony was over, Gary can't remember how much did he drink. He just felt dizzy and can't see things clearly. He waved his hand to a car with light on the top and just got in it.

By the time he opened his eyes, he saw a man with dark blue uniform wearing a visor cap and a badge stand in front of him. "Where am I?" he asked. And the man answered, "You're in a police station, sir. You stopped my car, got in, and threw up everything you ate. Now, maybe you would want to help me clean up the mess."

19.

One evening, Mike was participated in a friend's marring party. He was so happy that drank too much wine. Therefore, he was drunken and stop guipping, he couldn't drive home, either. So he decided to take a taxi home. On the roadside, he tried to shake his hand to take a taxi, however, he was so drunken that he mistaken the policecar for a taxi. Next morning, he found that he was in the police station. Then he just remembered that he was drank too much wine.

Drinking too much wine is not good for our health, either for our own safety.

20.

One evening. Jeff went to his friend's wedding ceremony. Jeff's friend, Paul, is also his junior high school classmate and best friend. Jeff was very glad to hear about Paul's good news. And he was so happy that he drank a lot without control. After he said good-bye to Paul, he took a taxi home. At the taxi, he dreamed a long and wonderful dream.....

Next morning, Jeff was waked up by a loud and angry sound. "Wake up! sir". Jeff opened his eyes slowly and looked around what he was. He was at the police stand. Actually, Jeff took the wrong car. He took a police car. How embarrassing Jeff was!