

By Chen, Bryan 陳柏元

My Rainy Day

Outside the window I can see
Pouring rain drenches passerby on the street.
What I mostly hate
Is such a rainy day

Every morning I wake up
The sky always says she's not happy.
Sun, her lover beloved,
The evil, dark clouds, has taken him away.

The sky cries every day
Her tears converge on a stream
Flowing in my heart canyon

She nestles her head to my bosom
Without knowing you have left me alone
I weep with her and say,
"I hate rainy days!"

Rainy days, rainy days
My heart won't have sunny days
Once I miss you again
I always have to endure the pain

By myself, in old good days
Pictures of our happy life replay
Don't you think you're so cruel
To leave me without telling me before?

Rainy days, rainy days
My heart won't have sunny days
Once I think of you again
Every day is my rainy day